A-Rod responds to illegal poker allegations

New York Yankees third baseman Alex Rodriguez released a statement Thursday through his spokesman, Richard Rubenstein, denying a report from Star magazine and RadarOnline.com which claimed he took part in an illegal, underground poker game.

The statement from Rubenstein read: "The story contains numerous factual inaccuracies, and Alex looks forward to cooperating with MLB's investigation."

The accusations were first published by RadarOnline.com and claimed the New York Yankees third baseman played in at least two games.

Major League Baseball has already started investigating allegations of Rodriguez's participation in the high-stakes poker games, which purportedly included A-list celebrities like Tobey Maguire, Matt Damon and Ben Affleck.

Huck blasted for hawking 9/11 vid

Mike Huckabee looking to make a buck off 9/11 videos, accuse outraged family members Others decry 'cottage industry' made of national tragedy

Some 9/11 family members say former presidential contender Mike Huckabee is trying to milk the 10th anniversary of 9/11 for $9.95, plus $3.95 in shipping and handling.

Huckabee has signed on to hawk videos for Learn Our History, a company that creates cartoons for schoolchildren about America's history. One of the latest offerings depicts a cartoon jetliner crashing into the two towers.

Some 9/11 family members have spoken out against Huckabee's sudden educational interest.

"Sept. 11 is coming up, and he's looking for extra attention and some extra money," said Jim Riches, a retired FDNY chief whose son, James, died in the towers.

Riches went on to call profiteers of 9/11 "vultures."

"Kids should be educated by teachers, not preachers and politicians," said Riches. "Giuliani made millions talking about 9/11 ,and Huckabee's another one. They make careers of 9/11. It's exploiting American history."

Any profit made off of 9/11 is in bad taste, said Sally Regenhard, who lost her son Christian nearly 10 years ago in the attacks.

▶ These are stills from Learn Our History's educational video, "9/11 and the War On Terror."

Blood money?

Learn Our History promises to donate an unspecified amount of the video proceeds to "charities supporting 9/11 victims," said CEO and founder Brad Saft. "[It's] the defining event of our age. We're just trying to help people understand what happened."

"I feel there are a lot of people making a cottage industry out of 9/11," countered Regenhard. "I greatly object to 9/11 mugs, T-shirts and keychains." METRO/EAE

Levi Aron pleads not guilty

BROOKLYN. Levi Aron, alleged killer of 8-year-old Leiby Kletzky, pleaded not guilty Thursday in Brooklyn Supreme Court. Aron arrived in court after the Brooklyn district attorney's office announced he was mentally competent to stand trial. Subway series

HopStop, the subway directions search engine, revealed the following breakdown. The full report is available online at www.hopstop.com/blog.

NEIGHBORHOODS RANKED BY PERCENTAGE OF SEARCHES TO EACH STADIUM, IN DESCENDING ORDER:

TOP FIVE YANKEES NEIGHBORHOODS:
1: NORTH RIVERDALE, BRONX
2: MANHATTAN BEACH, BROOKLYN
3: PELHAM GARDENS, BRONX
4: CLEARVIEW, QUEENS
5: DOUGLASTON & LITTLE NECK, QUEENS

TOP FIVE METS NEIGHBORHOODS:
1: POMONOK, QUEENS
2: ARVERNE-EDGEMERE, QUEENS
3: CITY LINE, BROOKLYN
4: NEW LOTS, BROOKLYN
5: CAMBRIA HEIGHTS, QUEENS

Yanks beat the Mets in subway poll

The results are in: This city is a Yankees town.

According to HopStop, the subway directions search engine, 68 percent of all searches for baseball directions in New York were to Yankee Stadium.

That left Citi Field as the ending point for just 32 percent of searches.

But the beleaguered Mets still retain a few neighborhoods with strong support – or at least a lot of people needing directions.

"Outside of a few proud pockets, New York is Yankeeville for now," HopStop concluded in its report after studying searches between March 31, Major League Baseball's opening day, and June 26.

The survey did admit that some of the biggest ball fans might not need directions.

The stadiums' home boroughs revealed strong support, with the Bronx's North Riverdale hosting the most searches for Yankee Stadium and Pomonok in Queens as the neighborhood where people most often wanted directions to Citi Field. Bronx has near-full support for the Yankees; for example, in North Riverdale, not one person searched for directions to Citi Field. Sorry, Mr. Met.

Metro Challenge: And now the hard work begins

Winners of the Metro Challenge began their training Wednesday Push-ups, squats and cardio six days a week Want to get in shape? Drills for you, too

▶ The push-up, "Elements"-style: The first lesson is that it's all about the follow-through. A full push-up starts with your chest all the way down on the floor and ends when your arms are holding you all the way up.

Day one of training at Crossfit NYC began this week for the four Metro Challenge winners: Alexandra Mitchner, Esther Carpenter, Robert Hawthorn and Sean Smith were all hand-selected by Metro to train like a Marine for the next month with Josh Newman, co-owner and trainer at CrossFit NYC.

The four will even get the chance to participate in the Civilian Military Combine, a grueling 7-mile mountain race with military drills to be held Sept. 10 in the Pocono Mountains.

The Metro Challenge winners will train three times a week at CrossFit on West 26th Street, starting at 8 a.m. sharp every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. That's followed by working out on their own in between, plus runs every Tuesday and Thursday — and another run on weekends, just for good measure.

At CrossFit, they learn "Elements," the fundamentals of how to safely perfect core exercises and do short intervals of high-intensity workouts. These techniques are also a crucial part of the military drills they'll soon be doing in the combine.

After 20-second intervals of push-ups and squats, everyone's arms felt like jelly and walking down the stairs without quivering legs wasn't easy.

But Metro Challenge winners said what they thought would be a grueling hour of torture turned out to actually be pretty fun.

"The workouts are intense," said Hawthorn. "In what normally takes an hour to achieve at a conventional gym, takes half the time with Josh."

Follow along in print as they prepare for the race, five weeks away.

Shape up!

Want to train alongside Metro's winners? For the Metro readers training at home:

- Put a medicine ball (or a beach ball) behind the balls of your feet.
- Your feet should be at shoulder-width apart, weight on the heels of your feet.
- Squat down until your derriere is touching the ball.
- Make sure your back stays arched so your chest is upward at all times.
- Do as many squats as possible in 20 seconds.
- Rest for 10 seconds. Repeat seven times.

Wall Street plunges in worst selloff in two years

Busiest day in more than a year as investors dump shares Worries over economy taking their toll

BRENDAN MCDERMID/REUTERS

Thursday wasn't a good day on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors fled Wall Street in the worst stock-market sell-off since the depths of the Great Recession in early 2009 in what has turned into a full-fledged correction.

The Dow and the S&P tumbled more than 4 percent Thursday, and the Nasdaq lost 5 percent on fear the United States is staring at another recession and that Europe's sovereign debt crisis is swallowing two of its largest economies.

Analysts predicted further losses even though stocks have fallen on nine of the last 10 days. Two-year Treasury yields fell to a record low as investors sought safety in short-term government bonds.

The S&P 500's drop puts it more than 10 percent below its April 29 high, considered a correction. More than 13 billion shares changed hands, the busiest trading day in more than a year. Decliners beat advancers on the New York Stock Exchange by about 19 to 1.

"People are throwing in the towel because they can't find relief on any front."
MILTON EZRATI, MARKET STRATEGIST AT LORD ABBETT CO.

The market's recent malaise stems from a number of factors.

U.S. economic data has worsened, suggesting slowing growth from an already sluggish pace in the first half. Europe's sovereign debt crisis has defied remedies and threatens to engulf large euro-zone economies Spain and Italy.

"The debt troubles in Europe, especially with the yields on Italian and Spanish government bonds soaring, are making investors gather as much liquidity as possible," said Stephen Massocca, managing director of Wedbush Morgan in San Francisco. REUTERS

"I need to buy your jewelry for my retail store and for my customers worldwide."
M. Durst* — Costume Jewelry Specialist

WE ARE CONFIDENT OUR BUYERS WILL BEAT MOST LEGITIMATE OFFERS!

How to Test Us

Take your valuable items to other dealers before bringing them to us. Have them give you legitimate written offers. Then bring your items and your written offers to us. No one can guarantee to pay the highest prices all the time. But we believe the buyers we have chosen will beat most legitimate written offers.

Why Are We Telling You To Get Prices From Others?

Our buyers find it much easier to buy items of value from their customers after they have had previous offers. So it is in our own self interest to have you get written offers before coming to us. We also find that our customers are happier because they have the peace of mind of knowing they received a fair price.

Why Our Buyers May Be Able To Pay More

Our group of buyers will be here for only a few days. But in those few days, some of our buyers will buy more than many dealers buy in a year. Because of the volume of merchandise they handle, some of our buyers have developed world-wide markets and clients to liquidate their purchases at the best prices, which is one of the keys to why they can pay more than other dealers.

What Makes Us Different?

Most dealers who buy and sell items of value specialize in only a few areas. As a result, they are likely to make low offers for items in markets they are not familiar with.

For example, almost all jewelers specialize in new items. They do not often deal with old or used watches, which means they are unfamiliar with the true markets for such items. So if you have a used watch to sell, chances are a jeweler will make an offer on the low side because he does not want to make a mistake and pay too much.

The same thing applies to almost all items of value, such as lady items, art, jewelry, etc., that you bring to normal dealers.

Anderson, Carter, Bascom & Assoc. and Estate Buyer by MJD is different. Our volume buying has allowed us to bring together a large group of knowledgeable buyers. And although we do not control what our buyers pay, we believe they are comfortable paying prices that beat legitimate written offers from other dealers.

"UP TO" PRICES

IMPORTANT: All prices are based on rarity & condition. If an item is in poor condition, its value will be low. If an item is very rare, and in superb condition, it might be worth more than the "up to" prices listed. For example, a 1919 10¢ could be worth $1,400 in very high-quality condition or less than $1 in poor condition. In most cases, the "up to" prices listed in this advertisement are for items of exceptional rarity and quality. Chances are, you will not have those items. But we are willing to take the time to look at your items, just in case free of charge and give you our opinion.

IMPORTANT ECONOMIC INFORMATION

During the past few years, low interest rates, war, and an uncertain stock market combined to push prices of gold, silver, and many collectibles to their highest levels in 25 years. We have studied the investment and collectibles markets for decades, and in the past during times of economic uncertainty (which is happening now), there have been dramatic price declines in many areas of the jewelry, coin, and collectible markets.

Which is why this may be the best time in decades for you to sell for some of the highest prices ever

▶ Jason Bateman and Ryan Reynolds switch bodies after relieving themselves in a park fountain in "The Change-Up."

CHANGED MEN

Ryan Reynolds and Jason Bateman, stars of 'The Change-Up,' are older and wiser ◐ 'There was a time in my life when I'd wake up in a shallow pool of my own fluid, but those days are over,' says Reynolds. 'I eat breakfast now, not ketchup. It's different now.'

Playing best friends who magically switch bodies in "The Change-Up," real-life friends Ryan Reynolds and Jason Bateman have had plenty of time to think about what they'd do if they found themselves in that situation in real life. "I'd do terrible things to his body," Reynolds admits. Bateman, not batting an eye, finishes the thought for him: "And to my wife. He's been after my wife for years." To which Reynolds nods solemnly, adding, "Years, years. And she will be mine."

Kidding (we hope) aside, the two friends were excited about the idea of working off each other's quirks. In the film, Bateman's straitlaced family man finds himself navigating the world of a bachelor, while Reynolds' barely employed actor takes on a wife and kids and a rough week at work as a lawyer.

But while they may seem perfect for their respective roles, the guys insist they didn't really mind who played which role. In fact, Reynolds doesn't think he's any more like one character than the other. "I've got to say I'm somewhere in the middle," he says. "There was a time in my life when I'd wake up mornings in a shallow pool of my own fluid, but those days are over. I eat breakfast now, not ketchup. It's different now."

Bateman, though, definitely related to the husband and father he plays on screen, even if he was concerned it might not fit with the kind of raunchy comedy they were going for. "You look at the domestic part of this film and you think, is that going to soften the R-rating?" he admits. "Because when you buy a ticket to an R-rated film, you want R-rated comedy."

"The Change-Up" is most definitely R-rated, and the two actors are more than proud of it.

"You want to go in there, have a good time, laugh your ass off, maybe get offended a couple of times and get the hell out," Bateman says. "We're not trying to win Oscars here or teach anybody any lessons."

"I'd do terrible things to his body."

He is the ape man

Andy Serkis, aka Gollum, takes on another CG role in 'Rise of the Planet of the Apes'

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Andy Serkis is the human behind Caesar, the smartest ape.

If any actor is an expert at performance-capture technology, it's Andy Serkis. Serkis is best known for inhabiting Gollum in "Lord of the Rings" and as the big ape himself in "King Kong," both for Peter Jackson. He suits up again for Rupert Wyatt's "Rise of the Planet of the Apes" as Caesar, a chimp that starts a revolution.

But as much as he's made a name for himself through performance capture, Serkis doesn't think you should notice. "People aren't so much wanting to celebrate the technology anymore. It's something that we need to get over, really," he says.

Maybe Serkis is so over it because he's had more to do with the technology than most actors. "On 'Lord of the Rings,' my performance was shot on 35mm with all the other actors, then I had to go and reshoot in the performance-capture volume ... it was very, very early days," he says. "When we started to work on 'King Kong,' it was the first use, really, of facial capture."

For his latest bit of monkeying around, Serkis donned a motion-capture suit and head-mounted camera rig more like what was used for "Avatar," interacting on-set with co-stars James Franco and Freida Pinto. "On 'Rise of the Planet of the Apes,' it's the first time that performance capture has existed on live-action sets," he says. "We didn't have to go back and repeat anything."

FOR THE COMPLETE PROFILE, VISIT WWW.METRO.US/MOVIES

While the technological advances may be new, the franchise is anything but. Based on a 1963 French novel, the "Planet of the Apes" line has launched seven movies, two TV series and comic books. So why the lasting appeal? "We go through a kind of cycle of being interested in our closest brethren," Serkis says. "I suppose we gauge ourselves against them."

'Bellflower'

A Sundance favorite, "Bellflower" follows two young friends who spend their time indulging their adolescent fantasies (these atypical fantasies are along the lines of surviving a giant global apocalypse with their imaginary gang and a flame-throwing muscle car named Medusa). 'The Whistleblower'

In this true-life tale, "The Whistleblower" stars Rachel Weisz as Kathy Bolkovac, a former Nebraska policewoman who gets a job with an international peacekeeping force to rebuild postwar Bosnia. Review

Less 'Freaky Friday,' more (much more) raunch

'The Change-Up'
Grade: ●●●○○

The body-switching trope, usually applied to tween flicks about old-timers wanting to be young and zit-faces wanting to be autonomous, comes with a progression of plot points as predictable as the stages of grieving. But amazingly, with Ryan Reynolds and Jason Bateman at the helm of such a movie, this all-too-familiar story can be far more pleasurable than Lindsay Lohan and Jamie Lee Curtis rocking out at the high school prom.

Ryan Reynolds gets to do what he's best at here — which is to say, being a sarcastic himbo. Jason Bateman is perfectly cast as his foil: the upright, responsible lawyer with twin infants and a gorgeous wife.

While this male-centric, somewhat insulting take on what a drag it is to be a husband married to a wife who poops or a single man dating psychopathic women, it's clever enough to make us enjoy it anyway. It's smart, but not above going too far — knife-wielding babies are involved, after all.

HEIDI PATALANO

Charting the evolution of the 'Apes' franchise

"Too soon! Dear God, way too soon," was what many of us were thinking when it was announced that there would be a prequel to the classic 1960s sci-fi film "Planet of the Apes." After Tim Burton's disastrous attempt to remake the franchise with Mark Wahlberg filling the shoes of Charlton Heston in 2001, collective wisdom dictated that the talking apes franchise should not be revisited until we could stop making Marky Mark and the Funky Bunch jokes (as in, never).

But the pleasant surprise is that Rupert Wyatt's smart origin story about how apes first wrestled world domination away from humans is something that Dr. Zaius can be proud of. James Franco, as a brilliant doctor, is developing a drug to cure Alzheimer's for the sake of his ailing father, played by John Lithgow. In testing the drug on apes, he discovers the drug's off-label ability to elevate the intelligence of the animals.

What this "Apes" film has that the Burton remake lacked is a clever story that, while sentimental at times, doesn't impatiently yank on the heartstrings. This is helped of course by the stars of the show, the apes themselves, which have come a long way from the barely animated rubber-masked actors of the first films. Using technology first pioneered by James Cameron with "Avatar," Wyatt's CGI apes are a lifetime away from their campy predecessors.

The best surprise of all is that this film leaves you hoping that there will be a sequel to the prequel.

VERSOSHOCK REVERSE TRAMPOLINE SOLE

Defy Pain, Defy Aging, Defy Fatigue

This is my story

I used to be more active. I used to run, play basketball, tennis, football… I was more than a weekend warrior. I woke up every day filled with life! But now, in my late 30's, I spend most of my day in the office or sacked out in front of the TV. I rarely get to the gym – not that I don't like working out, it's the nagging pain in my knees and ankles. Low energy and laziness has got me down. My energy has fizzled and I'm embarrassed to admit that I've grown a spare tire (I'm sure it's hurting my love life). Nowadays I rarely walk. For some reason it's just harder now. Gravity has done a job on me.

Wear them and you'll know

That's what my doctor recommended. He said, "Gravity Defyer shoes are pain-relieving shoes." He promised they would change my life–like they were a fountain of youth. "They ease the force of gravity, relieving stress on your heels, ankles, knees and back. They boost your energy by propelling you forward." The longer he talked, the more sense it made. He was even wearing a pair himself!

Excitement swept through my body like a drug

I received my package from GravityDefyer.com and rushed to tear it open like a kid at Christmas. Inside I found the most amazing shoes I had ever seen – different than most running shoes. Sturdy construction. Cool colors. Nice lines… I was holding a miracle of technology. This was the real thing.

GDefy Benefits

- Relieve pain
- Ease joint & spinal pressure
- Reduce fatigue & tiredness
- Be more active
- Have more energy
- Appear taller
- Jump higher, walk and run faster
- Have instant comfort
- Cool your feet & reduce foot odor
- Elevate your performance

Scientifically Engineered to Defy Gravity!

I put them on and all I could say was, "WOW!" In minutes I was out the door. I was invincible; tireless in my new Gravity Defyer shoes. It was as if my legs had been replaced with super-powered bionics. What the doctor promised was all correct. No more knee pain. I started to lose weight. At last, I was pain free and filled with energy! I was back in the game. Gravity had no power over me!

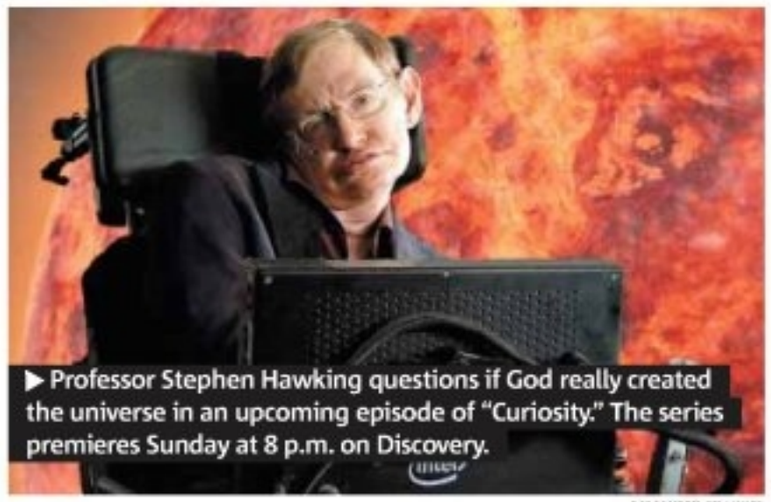
Live from TCA press tour: Eli Roth defines evil, Maggie Gyllenhaal explains why sex is fun and science documentaries get a celebrity makeover



▶ Professor Stephen Hawking questions if God really created the universe in an upcoming episode of "Curiosity." The series premieres Sunday at 8 p.m. on Discovery.

DISCOVERY CHANNEL

More often than not, science and nature programs released through major studios in the last decade have associated themselves with celebrity narrators. But not all A-listers are content with educating audiences from behind a microphone.

On "Curiosity," a new science anthology series tackling some of mankind's biggest questions, the celebrity host of each episode dives into the subject matter rather than explaining it in the typical "voice of God" narration style. The series — set to air more than 60 episodes over five years — kicks off with Professor Stephen Hawking asking: "Did God create the universe?" Future episodes include Maggie Gyllenhaal pondering "why sex is fun" and Morgan Freeman investigating the possibility of parallel universes.

The director/producer of horror films, Eli Roth, is known for his exploration of the dark corners of the mind and questions if evil exists in an episode.

"I've always been fascinated by the nature of fear," Roth says. "Even in my films, the 'Hostel' movies, I was always much more interested in why somebody would do such a terrible thing versus the act itself." To tackle such a question, Roth and his team took a look at the Milgram experiments — social psychology tests measuring the willingness of participants to defy their morals when asked to contradict their conscience by an authority figure.

"Something like 65 percent of the people would go to the point where they actually killed a person," Roth says of the 1961 experiments. "There is something in everybody that — if they feel they're right — allows [them] to disconnect. And we wanted to explore that."

No easy answers

Roth admits: Attempting to analyze one of life's "big questions" became a more daunting task than he ever expected.

"You can go into a question spiral — it's like a sinkhole — where you have a meeting, and literally you come out an hour later and nothing has been answered," he says. "You've solved nothing. You're exhausted and you think, 'Well, screw it.'"

Trusting his gut, finding 'The Voice'

▶ After winning "The Voice," Colon got to perform on "The Tonight Show."

▶ Javier Colon on how he almost didn't audition for the television show that has earned him a vast new audience ▶ On performing with Stevie Nicks

Before he became famous for his voice this year, Javier Colon relied on another body part to guide him: his gut.

"'The Voice' came along and I almost didn't do that," he says. "It was kind of a last-minute decision to audition."

Colon, 33, was crowned the first winner of the NBC talent competition in June and learned to continue following that instinct. His audition performance of "Time After Time" became an instant highlight of the show's freshman season.

"I just wanted somebody to turn around. I would have been happy with any of them," he says. "If I had the option to choose from several coaches, I wanted to go on a gut feeling."

Colon impressed all four celebrity mentors — most notably, his choice, Maroon 5 frontman Adam Levine.

"I really wanted to go with someone who thought I'd be an asset to their team, and Adam was so enthusiastic. He just made it very clear he wanted me."

Before the show, Colon released two albums with Capitol Records before being dropped in 2006. His previous work was more R&B based, and he hopes to do music he's more passionate about, with a pop singer-songwriter feel.

"I try to write songs that move people emotionally as opposed to just physically. I like to tell stories," he says.

He plans to have an album out in November. Until then, he will tour with seven other contestants to perform songs from the competition. New material will wait for personal shows — but Colon is still excited.

"I'm going to try to write some good songs," he says. "Which will hopefully cross over to whatever genre."

In the Nicks of time

Colon has already won the respect of established artists, including Pat Monahan of Train, Miranda Lambert and Justin Bieber. Most notably, Stevie Nicks, with whom Colon sang "Landslide" on the show's finale, invited him to sing it on her tour if he's in town. "I'm on a quest to get to where she is to do that," he says.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

The feed ...

On Fridays, Dorothy will post the best tweets she received during the week. You can always let her know what you think — good or bad — at @dorothyatmetro.

This week, readers let me in on their own dental drama (it's been a bad week for me and the ol' chompers, folks) and a few readers chime in on how I can look as good as Sandra Bullock at 47.

▶ @monicaatmetro My dentist has outlawed all red wine that's not sipped through a straw.

▶ @v0xtheriot i had to take out 4 wisdom teeth + 2 more on the same day. I looked like a chipmunk for a week

▶ @TBWhitehurst had to take 3 days off cuz I had a huge gap in mouth and they could not put a temporary. good thing I had sick leave.

▶ @morgancora I drank all the fluoride and puked ON my dentist when I was 6.

▶ @TraOsbourne Braces

▶ @ paulzander unlimited money to spend on plastic surgery. Simple really.

Marriage advice only Ice-T and Coco could offer

Stars like Alexander Skarsgard, Larry David and Harry Shum, Jr. came out Wednesday night to fete the Sheepdogs, the winners of Rolling Stone magazine's "Do You Wanna Be a Rock & Roll Star?" contest, at the Empire Hotel rooftop. The fan-voted contest awarded the Sheepdogs with a coveted cover story in the Aug. 18 edition of Rolling Stone and a recording deal with Atlantic Records.

▶ Ice-T and Coco on Wednesday

We spied everyone's favorite new reality TV couple, Ice-T and Coco, at the party and had to ask: How do they keep their marriage hot? Ever the lady, Coco cited communication as key as she gave her quite demure answer:

"I talk to him every single day," she told Metro. "And whether it's a problem or not, I bring it up to him, even if it starts a little tiff, I don't care, at least it's out of my mind. What women like to do is hold things in, and you're gonna be a very unhappy person if you just hold things in. So get it out."

Ice, on the other hand, had a different opinion on what keeps their relationship rolling: "Jungle sex," he told us.

Prime time for Kardashian wedding day

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

A bit fatigued by wedding season? Well, break out the No-Doz as the biggest wedding the world has ever seen (since Prince William and Duchess Kate, of course) is about to hit the airwaves! Entertainment Weekly reports that the wedding between Kim Kardashian and her Cro-Magnon fiance Kris Humphries is being set up by E! as a two-night special — meaning four hours of prime-time viewing.

The couple plan to swap vows on Saturday, Aug. 20, but E! will air "Kim Kardashian's Fairytale Wedding: A Kardashian Event" on Sunday, Oct. 9, at 8 p.m and Monday, Oct. 10, at 9 p.m.

▶ And you thought her butt was big — just wait for her wedding!

Four hours. That's a lot of time to devote to people you don't even know, America. But then again, you won't be forced to do the Electric Slide. So maybe it's a toss up?

Talking points

Osbourne dishes it out

Kelly Osbourne doesn't mince words when it comes to Christina Aguilera. On a recent episode of E!'s "Fashion Police," while mocking Aguilera's outfit, Osbourne unloaded. "Maybe she is just becoming the fat bitch she was born to be," Osbourne said. The anger apparently comes from personal history: "She called me fat for so many f—ing years. So you know what? F— you! You're fat, too."

Paltrow: I'm not prim!

Gwyneth Paltrow is looking to shake up her image. "It's good to shock people who think of me as the prim Gwyneth Paltrow," she tells Elle magazine. One way she's looking to do that, under the guidance of some very famous friends, is by exploring a music career. "Beyonce Knowles and Jay-Z — they think that I should just go do it by myself. That I should go in a studio and see what happens," she says. "And if it's good, do it. And if it's not, don't. So that's probably what I'll do."

Vergara not an early bird

Though she's already a parent, "Modern Family" star Sofia Vergara isn't as thrilled about doing the whole pregnancy thing again, she tells Redbook magazine. "When I had [my son] Manolo, I was 19, and I had the energy for everything," he says. "My boyfriend now wants to have kids, and I don't even want to think about it. I would have to get into that mind-set again, the waking up early."

Jason Statham moves in

Jason Statham is looking to settle down, and he's found just the place. The "Transporter" star purchased Ben Stiller's $11.5 million Hollywood Hills home, according to the Hollywood Reporter. The 10-bedroom Mediterranean-style home with guest house near the Hollywood Bowl was originally listed for $12.5 million.

▶ A music video from the band Yuck has plenty of nudity.

Now that music videos don't get much play on TV, they're letting loose on the Internet Why indie rock videos are suddenly very NSFW

▶ The Flaming Lips music video for "Watching the Planets" depicts naked frolicking in the park.

There's a new four-letter word in indie rock. With increasing frequency, videos are popping up online with the letters NSFW next to their listings. For the uninitiated, this stands for Not Safe For Work, which is a warning that you probably don't want your co-workers to catch you watching something like a few hundred nude bikers cavorting with Flaming Lips frontman Wayne Coyne, who is also nude as he sings "Watching the Planets."

"Well, I think it depends on where you work," jokes Coyne before considering his honest answer. "What we do was always geared toward hip adults anyways — we're not really trying to make kids' videos — but when you're stuck with the rules of TV, that would take an element of the ridiculous out of it. … No one is telling us what to do anymore, so let's not worry about it."

Michael Reich, who has directed several NSFW videos, mostly for the band Yuck, seems to share Coyne's sentiment.

"It's awesome that you can basically do whatever the f— you want on the Internet right now," he says.

Zac Pennington, singer from Parenthetical Girls, says he was intrigued by the racy videos he was seeing his peers make, which led to the single-shot video in which Pennington is shown singing while lying in bed. The screen only shows the top portion of his naked body, while a woman off-screen works on the lower portion. The song is called "The Pornographer."

Quoted

"It's awesome that you can basically do whatever the f— you want on the Internet right now."
MICHAEL REICH

"We'd been sort of fascinated with the recent glut of 'NSFW' music videos ourselves — wondering how far otherwise innocuous indie rock bands were from becoming propagators of outright pornography," he says. "'The Pornographer' video was in some ways a comment on the phenomenon, removing the barrier between band member and actual pornographer."

Pennington says that while it's new for these "otherwise innocuous" groups to express themselves in such an uncensored manner, it is a successful selling point reminiscent of an earlier brand.

"I think what the NSFW label suggests at this point is similar to the implied danger that a parental advisory once held," he says. "It's as much a means of selling the product to a certain audience as it is a detractor to another."

A time and a scandalous place

Reich says bands have sought him out to direct his videos because of his previous NSFW vids, but he doesn't believe in doing nude or crude just for the sake of it.

"I think you should come up with the idea — and if it happens to be a little scandalous or not safe for work, that's cool," he says. "But you can't seek out shock value because that's all it is. It's just gratuitous and shock."

How much more shocking does Reich think it will become?

"I think it's a trend that will kind of die down a little bit," he muses, "just because it's so oversaturated in the past couple of months."

THE ONLY POKING I WANT

Opinion

ALEX MCCORD OF "THE REAL HOUSEWIVES OF NEW YORK CITY"

Social networking sometimes makes me want to bang my head against a wall. A real one, not the one you bounce around to break bricks on your BlackBerry.

With Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, A Small World, and I don't even remember what else, a good chunk of my day is spent managing friend lists, connections, messages, check-ins … and we haven't even gotten to time-wasting e-mails yet.

No, I don't want to join a Mafia War or find out what anyone bought on FarmVille. No, I haven't joined Google+ yet and no, I definitely don't want anyone poking me. Well, unless it's my husband.

Yes, I work on reality TV and interacting with fans online is part of the gig. That's not the problem; we love our fans and without them our show wouldn't be a hit. The time drain I'm talking about is something everyone I know complains of, no matter where they work. Stay at home parents, bankers, writers and teachers all tell me the same story; they get sucked into reading status updates of people, setting up filters so their co-workers can't read their family updates, and so on.

These 21st century tools are fantastic for tracking people down, reconnecting and making business deals. But it's also addictive, and I wonder when the first support groups for people who can't disconnect will form.

When out with my husband, we police each other over cell phone use. We do keep our phones handy and do check our e-mail or check to see who is calling when it rings. If we're making a work appearance, of course we tweet and check-in and post an update or a picture. Once that's done, however, we unplug and focus on the actual people in front of us. Social networking is here to stay, but it needs management.

Standard mustard and ketchup is for boardwalks and street corners This summer, you're going gourmet on your dogs

▶ Bark Hot Dogs is located at 474 Bergen St. in Park Slope, Brooklyn.

Joshua Sharkey, co-owner and chef of Bark Hot Dogs, serves up mouthwatering artisinal hot dogs (which he bastes in "Bark butter" — a combo of smoked lard, butter and sea salt). He knows that condiments are a game-changer — all toppings and sides are made in-house with local ingredients. Here, he shows us how to jazz up the standard dog. Your grill just got hotter.

▶ Joshua Sharkey

Toast the bun!
"One of the biggest problems you encounter with your hot dog is a soggy bun. There should be a contrast of texture between the bread and the sausage so that you can taste and appreciate both. By toasting the bun (we toast ours with a little butter), you can create a nice crust on the outside of the bread that keeps it moist with a nice bite."

Some meat for your meat
"Hot dogs are a great medium for lots of different flavors, and we find that adding a little extra meat to your already-meaty experience makes for an amped-up version of the classic hot dog. We like to add braised meat or porky baked beans on top with a little heat — whether from mustard or horseradish or a spicy sauce."

Go crazy with seasonings
"If you plan to make a topping from scratch, make sure it's heavily seasoned. When tasting something such as baked beans, chili or sweet tomato-laced onions, they should taste a little too strong on their own. If these condiments don't have enough acid, sweetness and salt, the hot dog and bun will soak up a lot of that flavor, yielding a flat-tasting condiment. Vinegar and sugar are your best friends."

Cook to perfection
"Part of a great hot dog experience is, of course, the 'snap.' If you are working with a quality hot dog, it will most likely have a natural casing. This is the best type of dog for that quintessential snap — but you have to treat it carefully. We like to cook our dogs very slowly at first, with a little bit of canola oil to soften the casings. Afterward, just before we serve them, we cook them on high heat to get a nice, crispy outer surface."

Slaw: Not just a side
"I'm from the south, and down there we like slaw on everything — including our hot dogs. This is why at Bark we thought it only natural to have a hot dog topped with our pickle juice-laced coleslaw. It's tangy [and] savory and has a nice bite to it to contrast the soft bun and snappy dog."

TINA CHADHA

Weekend recipe

New York-style sweet 'n' sour onions

- 4 large white onions, sliced thin
- 1 teaspoon vegetable, grape-seed or canola oil (canola is best)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can of San Marzano tomatoes, whole, peeled (12 oz.)
- ¼ cup plus 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- ¼ cup granulated white sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt; add more to taste

1 Heat a large, wide pan over medium heat and add the oil. Once the oil is hot, add the onions and the salt and stir immediately. Cook the onions over medium heat until completely softened, but do not let them color at all.

2 While the onions are cooking, puree the tomato, vinegar, sugar and tablespoon of salt in the blender until completely smooth.

3 Once the onions are completely softened, add the tomato mixture and cook down until completely dry, about 25 minutes over low heat. Let this mixture cool overnight before using.

Reader 'solves the debt crisis'

If you have enough to retire comfortably, or even extravagantly, no social security for you. If you can afford private health insurance, no medicare or medicaid for you. If you earn in a tax refund what some people earn in a year, no refund for you. If you're not a citizen, no unemployment for you. If you're milking the system, your days are numbered. If you've served in the military, you are the exception. If you work for the government, you are not the exception. Be patriotic and realize when enough money is enough money. You can't take it with you when you die.

SPENCER COSGROVE, VIA E-MAIL

Goodbye and good riddance

Tea Partiers and other believers in small government should move to Somalia. The government there is infinitely small; and without being dragged down by taxes, the economy must surely be booming.

JAKE SLOSAR, QUEENS

Free speech is what it's about

In the debt ceiling standoff, Tea Party Republicans took brinksmanship to a level formerly reserved for international hostilities. That provoked heated condemnation, including comparison to hostage-taking terrorists. Predictably, we're being subjected to the proverbial half-pint thunderstorm over it. Grow a thicker skin, folks. I support the right of Tea Party protesters to say the horrible stuff they do. Let's uphold free speech for both sides.

Horoscope

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Find that quiet corner free from all outside interference to work out a complicated or tedious problem that's been bothering you lately. You'll find the answer.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You should be able to use to your advantage something beneficial that develops regarding an endeavor in which you're presently involved. It will elevate your hopes and expectations.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Although it is not unusual for you, your qualities of kindness and consideration for others will be very much in evidence to all with whom you're involved, making you extremely popular.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Any logical evaluations you get are likely to be seasoned with a bit of sensitivity, giving you added wisdom, not just good ideas. People won't be able to help taking you seriously.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Most things you take on will work out extremely well for you because you'll instinctively know how to utilize whatever resources you have at your disposal with great efficacy.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Things should go much smoother for you than usual and consequently get you the type of cooperation you want and desire from your mate, partner or special someone.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. This could be an interesting but unexpected day that will be productive, profitable and personally rewarding. Get down to business and don't let frivolous interests distract you.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If there is some kind of assignment or personal project you would like to reorganize and get off to a fresh start, you won't find a better day to do so.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Finishing off the workweek with the completion of a project on which you've toiled hard and long will bring you great satisfaction.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Because you're endowed with some impressively strong powers of concentration, use them constructively to sort out a project that you've been finding confusing and difficult.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Although you're better known for rolling the dice rather than for being practical, you won't do anything that isn't well thought out when it comes to your commercial interests.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. It could be one of those rare days when you'll be able to do most anything you want without too much outside interference. Why not focus your efforts on advancing a personal aim?

YANKEES AND METS HIGHLIGHTS VIDEO ONLINE: WWW.METRO.US/SPORTS

Storylines to watch

- Yanks head to Boston for series to determine East lead
- Can they bounce back from losing eight of first nine?

GETTY IMAGES

1 Can the Yankees stop Jacoby Ellsbury?

The Yankees have dropped eight of nine for a number of reasons. Most starkly, they haven't contained Ellsbury.

Ellsbury's bounce-back year includes a .371 average (13-for-35) and a .992 OPS against the Yankees. The last time he faced the Yankees, his average went from .299 to .310.

Prior to last night's game he had a .318 average (second among AL outfielders), a .373 OPS (fifth), 18 home runs (fourth) and 31 stolen bases (third).

He's not only showing speed, but a surprising amount of power too.

2 How will Colon and Garcia fare?

Based on the fact A.J. Burnett never beats the Red Sox in pinstripes and could not even win Wednesday, it is a good thing he is not pitching this series.

CC Sabathia starts Saturday and his turn is sandwiched around starts by Bartolo Colon and Freddy Garcia, who have continued pitching well.

Neither pitcher has won against the Red Sox, though Colon is 0-2 with a respectable 2.61 ERA. Garcia is 0-2 with a 10.13 ERA.

3 Does losing eight of nine mean anything?

Right now it matters as much as it did the morning of Aug. 6, 2009, when the Yankees were winless in eight games against the Red Sox.

The Yankees swept that series and like two years ago come in playing very good ball.

Since getting swept away by Boston, the Yankees have won 34 of 50 games due to several hitters getting hot, most of all Robinson Cano.

Mets' one last hope

The 55-55 Mets begin a three-game weekend series against NL wild card-leading Atlanta with 22-28 mark at Citi Field. It is the third worst home record in baseball ahead of only Houston and San Diego.

For a team that still considers itself in the NL wild card race, it is certainly a concern that the Mets are below .500 in their home park.

"Being around the guys, watching them work ... there's just a more relaxed sense of who they are when we're on the road. I don't have a reason for that," Collins said.

Bradshaw puts contract dispute behind him, gets down to work

The Giants finally had their full allotment of players Thursday following the official ratification of the CBA.

And of all the players missing in action since the start of training camp, none was missed more than running back Ahmad Bradshaw. Like most teams, the Giants had to wait until 4 p.m. to see if newly signed players could suit up for camp and Bradshaw said he was itching to get back to work.

EXTENDED COVERAGE FROM GIANTS CAMP WWW.METRO.US/SPORTS

Bradshaw said he expected more than his four-year, $18 million deal, but added he's "happy to be here and happy with what I got." He praised backfield mate and good friend Brandon Jacobs for making it possible to return. It was Jacobs who took a pay cut so the Giants could have the necessary cap space.

Bradshaw joked that Jacobs hasn't asked for anything in return, but said he'll certainly take care of his friend. TONY WILLIAMS

Jets part ways with veteran Cotchery

The Jets have released longtime wide receiver Jerricho Cotchery to clear cap space to sign former Baltimore Ravens wide receiver Derrick Mason.

Cotchery was a fourth-round pick of the Jets in 2004 and has spent all seven years of his NFL career in green and white. He was the longest-tenured member of the team in training camp this summer.

Cotchery suffered a lower back injury in 2010 and had not yet practiced with the team in training camp as he recovers from surgery.

The release of the 29-year-old Cotchery opens the door for the Jets to bring in Mason, a player head coach Rex Ryan was familiar with during his tenure in Baltimore.

Cotchery would have earned $1,991,666 for the 2011 season. KRISTIAN DYER

Fantasy sports

ADAM LEVITAN

ALEVITAN@METRO.US

Fantasy leagues are rarely won in Rounds 1 or 2 of the draft. Even dolts like "the Situation" know that Chris Johnson is going to have a good year.

Fantasy leagues are won in the middle rounds, where guys like Mike Wallace, Jamaal Charles and Darren McFadden become studs. Here are this year's mid-round value picks:

Super Mario

Over the final three weeks of last season, Mario Manningham put his skills on display by going off for three 100-yard games and four touchdowns. Now that Steve Smith (knee) is out of the picture, Manningham is going to start and is poised for a breakout fourth season. He's underrated as a deep threat and as a runner after the catch.

SCOTT CUNNINGHAM/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Manningham stands to benefit from the extra attention that will be paid to Hakeem Nicks.

Beanie is back

Beanie Wells has averaged just 10.0 carries per game in his first two seasons. Due to consistently nagging knee pain, he has looked inept. Now that Tim Hightower is gone and his knee issues have been corrected, that is all about to change. Wells is a 15-17 carry per game back that can be had cheaply.

Cleared Collie

Austin Collie's 2010 season will be remembered for his scary concussions. But when he was on the field, he averaged 6.4 catches for 72.1 yards and scored eight times in nine games. With Reggie Wayne losing a step or two, Collie's health is worth rolling the dice on.

NFL free agency watch

The stock of these three players has gone down thanks to the flurry of moves over the last 10 days:

1 Jordy Nelson, WR, GB — The Packers surprised everyone by deciding to pay James Jones. That means a shared role again for Nelson and less targets for the entire receiving corps. Downgrade Greg Jennings as well.

2 Adrian Peterson, RB, MIN — The Vikes let Sidney Rice walk and will roll with Bernard Berrian and Michael Jenkins as secondary WRs. The offensive line wasn't addressed. Peterson is going to see eight-man fronts.

3 Ryan Torain, RB, WAS — The Redskins traded for Tim Hightower, who has starting experience and can fill a third-down role. The oft-injured Torain is facing heavy competition now.

Yards-per-carry for Michael Turner over the final five weeks of last season. Atlanta is putting more faith in Matt Ryan, so Turner is a huge red flag.

Career Training

NO HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMA - TCI CAN HELP!

TCI has found that many mature students who do not have a high school diploma or GED, but have life experience and are dedicated to attending classes regularly, can succeed in earning a high school equivalency from New York State at the same time they earn their Associate's Degree.
